“Cliff always made me feel like I was part of the staff when I substituted at Sunset. He was always smiling and had the most amazing chuckle. The world is a little less bright without him. My deepest condolences.

“I'm so sorry to hear of the loss of Cliff. He had been in the same graduating class as my sister, Janice, and had been among the circle of her friends all through school. I really felt he lived on a special place (his grandparents) as they were close neighbors. My condolences to all who mourn him.

PS

I am so sorry to hear of cliffs passing. We were neighbors for many years. Dick was the same age 63 when he passed two years ago. I know the heartache. And my wishes and my prayers go out to his family and friends.

I have known Cliff since we were both tearing up 2nd street on our trikes. Growing up, we spent many weekends and summers together that included Cub Scout trips to Camp Cowles on Diamond Lake. We always had a great time hiking, exploring, and water skiing among many other hobbies. Cliff was the analytical one when it came to doing something that might get us in trouble or put us in danger. "I don't think I would try that Dave" was a common quote. He was a man of many talents from music to gardening. Such a kind and gentle man, and I'm really going to miss him. Prayers for Jane, Orval, Brad, Logan, Tyler and the entire family.

Cliff shared his care and skills working with my grade 3 students for several years at Sunset Elementary. He always had a kind heart for the kids and gave quality time to make our class have a good day. Cliff shared with me the joy of his family and the celebration of beautiful sunrises before going to school. His gifts will be dearly missed and will always be treasured.

Our friend Cliff was a Renaissance man. He had many talents and continued learning throughout his life. He had a genuine love for all. He used to say, laughing, he didn't know what he wanted to do when he grew up. What he did know how to do was to live his life intentionally with a kind demeanor. We will always miss him.
