“ *I loved Bob like a father, I am deeply sorry for the family's loss. I wrote this poem to express my feelings Finally Home Weep for me no more for I am finally home Where the pastures are wide and green Where wild mustangs like to roam
The long trail home is no more, for I am finally here Please don't weep for this old cowboy, please don't shed a tear
My work on earth has come to an end I've seen my last dusk and dawn It's time for this old cowboy to be moseying on along Weep for me no more, please don't shed a tear, I am finally home, and I'll be waiting for you here...
My love and prayers go out to all of you*

“ I can't comprehend just how sad you must feel, For the loss of someone you love. This sorrowful time must still feel unreal And you're looking for strength from above. I hope, from my heart, that your pain will decrease, That your spirit will gain strength again, And I pray that your faith will create inner peace, And that God will send blessings--Amen. Till then, if you need me to lighten your load, I'm waiting to come to your aid. Just call on me, and I'll walk down that road, Until the dark times start to fade. Deep condolences, We love you mom,

“ I know for certain that we never lose the people we love, even to death. They continue to participate in every act, thought and decision we make. Their love leaves an indelible imprint in our memories. We find comfort in knowing that our lives have been enriched by having shared their love.

“ Please let me convey my deepest condolences to the surviving family.
Bob and I had so much fun together as teenagers. I will always remember his handsome young face and charming smile. We danced together at grange and high school dances. We were cousins by marriage and were good friends.
Rest in Peace Bob.
